SUICIDE Awareness Month

Sadly across our entire nation, families and friends lose their loved ones from suicide. So, in honor of suicide prevention month here are a few things to do to raise awareness during national suicide prevention month.

Even though there is only one month for this important and devastating month, ANY month or day participating and contributing to suicide prevention makes a big difference and helps a TON.

IF YOU EVER NEED TO TALK ; SUICIDE PREVENTION LIFELINE -
1(800)-273-8255

OR TEXT - 741741 (US) 686868 (CANADA) 85258 (UK)

1. you can get involved locally, you can consider joining or sign up for mentalhealthfirstaid.org.
2. You can contribute to donating towards organizations. If you can't donate, participating and giving your time makes a big difference!
3. Having hard conversations. Talking to any of your loved ones is willingness to gain mental strength. Taking time out of your day to genuinely ask how they are doing is a big way to bring awareness to this important month.

Cheers to our HARDWORKING CITIZENS

Hooray, the day is here! September 5, 2022 is Labor Day. Workers across America including our teachers take time off to be appreciated by those around them. Labor became a national holiday in 1894. Mr. Grover Cleveland was the president at the time making the first Monday of September a day to acknowledge our nation's hard workers. So put down your hard hats and celebrate!
